

Berkshire Medical Center (BMC) has a strong history of commitment to medical education. For more than fifty years we have provided Medical Students, Residents, and Fellows with exceptional training across a wide range of specialties. We are proud to offer three ACGME (Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education) accredited residency programs in Internal Medicine, General Surgery, and Psychiatry. In addition, we have an ACGME accredited Fellowship in Osteopathic Neuromusculoskeletal Medicine.

We are proud to be affiliated with The University of Massachusetts Chan Medical School, The University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine, and Boston University. The Office of Medical Education welcomes third year and fourth-year medical students for clerkships.

Our Program Directors and Faculty supply high quality education in a variety of methods including but not limited to, noon conferences, journal clubs, scholarly activity, interactive workshops, and mentorship. We also encourage participation in research and quality improvement projects. Our residents come from many different backgrounds and countries. This diverse environment fosters learning not only from Faculty but also from your fellow residents. BMC provides residents with a strong foundation to pursue their individual career goals. Upon completion of their program, our residents have chosen to enter fellowships, become hospitalists, or enter private/multispecialty practices.

Thank you for your consideration of BMC as part of your career path. We look forward to the opportunity to work with you in the future.

Sincerely,

Liana Fraenkel, MD, MPH

Director of Medical Education/DIO, Berkshire Medical Center
Director of Population Health Research, Berkshire Medical Center